Love is a universal feeling. People often assume that relationships are the same everywhere. 5 it is true that some parts of romance are similar for everyone, the way that people show affection may be different because of their backgrounds.

In some countries, like South Korea, boyfriends will give their girlfriends a lot of gifts to be romantic. But in other countries, like England, gifts are only 6 for birthdays, and giving too many gifts might be seen as shallow. Another aspect of relationships that varies from country to country is expressing love in public. Couples in South America generally show affection in public, while couples from Middle Eastern countries are often more 7. Dates are also different, and the conventions depend 8 the country. A restaurant is where the first date takes place for most Italian people. However, people from Sweden often have their first date in a coffee shop.

These differences can make it difficult for people from a different culture to date and can even 9 their relationships. They do not expect the same things, which can affect 10 and communication. But whatever the cultural differences are, it is usually possible to overcome them. Both people should discuss their feelings and the things that they want in a relationship 11. The most important thing is to respect each other.

Fake news comes in various forms and is used for a number of different purposes. One of the most common ways people get fake news is through 12. Headlines of clickbait are often too attractive to ignore, such as “Buy one get one free coupons” at coffee shops. Tempting 13 these statements are, they include very few details. In addition, they generally exaggerate some facts, omit others, and just make things up. In short, clickbait functions to make people 14 websites.

Another common way is propaganda. Although this type seems very believable, it is meant to deceive. These articles spread through propaganda are usually political, but they can also cover other topics, such as vaccines. 15, propaganda is aimed at frightening people—it tells them that doing something like getting a vaccine or electing a particular politician will produce a terrible outcome.

Governments and businesses have taken action to tackle fake news. Several large media companies, including the BBC and The Washington Post, established fact checking services that help people confirm 16 a news story is true. 17, technology firms like Google and Facebook have promised to highlight and report fake news. Nevertheless, this might not really help. Facebook's fact checking service might also be “fake”—it has been accused of racial and political 18 because some of the organizations involved in the service are connected with violent white racists.

Every bride dreams of a perfect wedding day. For Western brides no wedding day is perfect without the perfect cake. But perfect means different things to different people. A simple cake with buttercream frosting and a few decorations is fine for some.

____29_____. Their perfect cake requires fondant to make it a reality. It's made with sugar, water and corn syrup, but fondant is not popular for its flavor. _____30_____. In fact, many people dislike the way that fondant tastes on its own. However, the decorating possibilities are endless, and a cake artist can do almost anything with it. _____31_____. Not only does it make the cake look professional, but it also keeps the cake fresh. It will be OK to eat much longer than a cake with just buttercream frosting.

Cake decorating is not just an art for weddings. Any occasion can call for a special cake. Actually, some TV shows are built around making amazing cakes. Cake Boss, an American TV show, follows Buddy Valastro as he constructs giant, eye-catching cakes. He's made dinosaur cakes, dragon cakes, rocket ship cakes – almost anything under the sun. _____32_____. Fondant can be painted with almost any color or design. Since fondant holds its shape, it can be made into big, realistic animals or flowers.

____33_____Artists must form each petal and then use tiny metal tools to build each petal into a flower. You don't have to be a professional to work with fondant. The internet has many ideas that budding cake artists can try out. Try some and see what works for you.

(A) But these cakes are time-consuming to make.

(B) The sky is the limit

(C) People don't cover a cake with smooth sheets of fondant to improve the taste.

(D) But other brides want something really creative.

(E) The secret to his colorful, artistic cakes is also fondant.

第一篇

Today, the world knows Yuzuru Hanyu as a skilled skating athlete. What most people outside of Japan don't know is that Hanyu and his family were once victims of the 2011 Great East Japan Earthquake. The disaster, which left 18,500 people dead and the country completely shaken, damaged their house, forcing them to take temporary shelter in government housing. Thankfully, neither Hanyu nor his family were hurt, but vivid memories of the earthquake still haunt him. The event also left him with a greater determination to make every day count and help the people in need. In splendid fashion, Hanyu has kept his promise to himself and the world. So far, Hanyu has raised money on numerous occasions using ice skating as a method for the people directly affected by the quake and the subsequent tsunami. And this is just one of the many, many things about this star on ice that make a good impression on people at home and abroad.

At 53 kilograms, Hanyu is of relatively slight build. But he is in fact very strong, able to perform jumps, spins and moves that others can only attempt. To achieve such perfection, Hanyu trains constantly and is very demanding of himself. As he glides effortlessly across the ice, he sometimes looks more like a ballet dancer than a figure skater. Whenever he's at the rink, he completely enjoys himself, and in return, the audiences love him, responding to his visible joy with cheers and clapping. Often, after Hanyu's performances, people in the crowd shower him with stuffed Pooh Bears, his chosen mascot. In spite of all the wins and the admiration he's received, Hanyu remains humble and humorous. How can anyone not love him?

34. What will be the best title for this article?

- (A) A Figure Skater's Effort on the Rink and Good Deeds
- (B) A Figure Skater's Excellent Performance
- (C) A Figure Skater's Poor Experience
- (D) A Figure Skater's Chosen Mascot

35. According to the article, what is not included in the response that the people will give to Hanyu?

- (A) cheers
- (B) applause
- (C) stuffed Pooh Bears
- (D) flowers

36. What will be the best substitute for the bold-faced word, effortlessly?

- (A) hardly
- (B) gradually
- (C) easily
- (D) swiftly

37. Why does Hanyu raise money for the people directly affected by the earthquake and tsunami?

- (A) The Japanese government did nothing for the victims in the earthquake and tsunami.
- (B) His family and him were also the victims of the disastrous earthquake and tsunami.
- (C) He himself is a very excellent skater with compassion.
- (D) He wants people to have a good impression on him and admire his performance.

In modern times, Valentine's Day is a festival of flowers and chocolate, a pleasant time for lovers. No one knows exactly where it all started. Believe it or not, the records show ancient Rome might be a reasonable time to start the festival. Over two thousand years ago, the Romans used to hold an annual festival called Lupercalia from February 13th through February 15th. To pray for having babies, naked Roman men would sacrifice goats and dogs. After removing the skins from the dead animals, they would use these animal skins to whip the naked women around them. The women tolerated and even welcomed all this, believing the gods would fulfill their wishes this way.

Today's celebration is indeed known as Valentine's Day. But who was Valentine? In 269 A.D., a Roman priest named Valentine was put to death because he secretly helped soldiers get married. What he did was illegal in Rome at that time for military reasons. As the story goes, Valentine fell in love with the guard's daughter while he was in prison. Valentine wrote her a goodbye love letter and signed it with the words "From your Valentine" before he was beaten to death on February 14th.

In 496 A.D., to honor Valentine for his great service, Pope Gelasius officially declared the very first St. Valentine's Day to be celebrated on February 14th. Meanwhile, Lupercalia was changed to the feast of St. Valentine, which is commonly thought to be the beginning of today's celebration of Valentine's Day.

38. What is the passage mainly about?

- (A) The debate about Valentine's Day.
- (B) The celebration of Valentine's Day.
- (C) The true value of Valentine's Day.
- (D) The origins of Valentine's Day.

39. By what method is this passage organized?

- (A) Cause and effect.
- (B) Sequence of time.
- (C) Problem and solution.
- (D) Comparison and contrast.

40. What does "their wishes" refer to in the first paragraph?

- (A) A good dream.
- (B) Great wealth.
- (C) The birth of babies.
- (D) A happy marriage.

41. What can we learn from the passage?

- (A) The Romans were scared to celebrate Valentine's Day.
- (B) Valentine's Day used to be celebrated between friends.
- (C) The first Valentine's card appeared before Lupercalia.
- (D) It was the death of St. Valentine that led to the festival.
